Claim 13 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim must be in the alternative only. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claim has not been further treated on the merits.

Claims 7-12 are objected to because of the following informalities:

- a) "said digital composite video" recited in claim 7 lacks definite antecedence because "digital composite video" has not yet been introduced;
- b) likewise "said composite video line" recited in claim 8 lacks definite antecedence because "composite video line" has not been recited previously; and in line 9 of claim 14, "components" should be singular.

Applicant is reminded that the term "said" requires that the feature to which it refers was previously recited verbatim.

Appropriate correction is required.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 8 -12 are also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 8 and 10, "the modulated video signal" does not appear to be an inherent feature because at the processing stage described, the signal would be in demodulated form.

Art Unit: 2614

In claim 11, the feature "said composite video" has ambiguous antecedence because both an analog and a digital composite video line were recited earlier.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 4, 7, 10 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cooper.

The color demodulator of Cooper (noting Fig. 4) receives an analog composite input signal (at terminal 67) which is converted by A/D convertor 68 as signal 73, wherein the digital processing elements downstream element 68 do not require a phase-locked loop to detect the color burst phase of the composite analog video signal (element 97: col. 5 lines 53-59. It is noted that PLL 72 is an optional element: col. 4 lines 49-53), thereby meeting claim 4.

As for claim 7, initial line detection is used by sync separator 69 that accommodates signal 81C, prior to detection of the subcarrier.

As for claim 10, the color burst phase is determined by processing the video samples between each respective line start and the active video portion of each line.

Regarding claim 12, chroma ref generator 94 provides the regenerated subcarrier in quadrature form ($\sin \Theta$ and $\cos \Theta$) as signals 95 and 95, which are mixed with the digitized video samples and in turn converted into R, G and B color components by element 91 for display.

Art Unit: 2614

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cooper in view of Ross (of record).

It would also have been obvious to use any type of buffering in the system of Cooper as so preferred, consideration given to performance. Buffering in general is very well known and used in broad-reaching fields of endeavor, the benefits thereof being well accepted (improved data transfer for subsequent processing), such as the video/fax frame buffer 14 as shown by Ross who specifies its benefits (col. 3 lines 20-22).

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cooper in view of Amano (of record).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to integrate electronic components associated with each other, such as the A/D convertor and adjacent processing elements of Cooper, as is taught by Amano (e.g. col. 2 lines 40-44), for the well known benefits of minimizing circuit arrangement (space conservation being a primary consideration of the circuit designer), as well as for ensuring superior communication between the two components. Applicant in fact admits that having A/D convertors and associated processors integrated is well known (last full paragraph on page 6 of his specification).

Art Unit: 2614

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Both Suzuki and O'Gwynn point out that PLL's are not used in determining color burst phase data in their analog/digital video processing systems.

(8.)

Claims 8, 9, 11 and 14-21 appear allowable over the prior art.

9. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
